Public Opinion.

EWING'S WARFARE.

General Ewing's malignant attacks upon Secretary Sherman are entirely unjustifiable, not to say outrageous, but they are after all advantageous to the secretary, for they afford him opportunities for explaining his plans, which always result in strengthening the public confidence in him. His effect upon Ewing is not so flattering, but when Ewing passed the point where he could become more ridiculous long ago. — A. V. Dibdin.

POOR TILDEN.

It is a distinction enough for Mr. Tilden to be the only person elected president since the foundation of the republic who did not obtain his office. The position is unique, like Mr. Tilden, and it is not proposed to compromise his dignity by allowing him to become president. The south will have Mr. Tilden, charlatans news and Courier [Dem.]

THE SHARPIST.

The republican congressional campaign committee, has already been organized, and the democrats are getting ready. The crisis will take place, however, when the David Davis party organizes and sits on the situation. — Philadelphia Times.

RECONCILIATION.

Georgia will never contribute anything toward reviving the irritating race issue which has so long divided the republic, retarded the growth of the south, subordinated all practical political issues, and put the government, rulerless and helpless, in a whirlwind of passion and hate. — Atlanta Constitution.

CONTINUES TO BE "IMPRATICABLE."

Secretary Schurz continues to be "impracticable." Last summer he appointed Mrs. Briggs ("Olivia," the newspaper correspondent) visitor of the government insane asylum at Washington; sadly scandalizing the mail fogies on the board; — course she proves the most efficient worker of the lot, and Mr. Schurz now adds two more women to succeed male visitors. — Springfield Republican.

ARTISTS' STYLING.

To Secretary Chase and Secretary Sherman history will give the credit of having piloted the treasury through its two most critical periods. One gave it strength and elasticity to sustain a gigantic war; the other will have brought it back in due time to the sound and enduring basis of payment. — Cleveland Ohio Leader.

A LEFT-HANDER FOR TILDEN.

There are those who think that if the issue of fraud is left to smoulder it may easily be made in 1880 to blaze up with such ferocity and fury that no possible combination can prevent the renomination of Mr. Tilden. He would then impersonate a great national atomosm. Against all such patriotic and personal considerations we protest. Let us have the national peace and honor established on a firmer and better basis! — A. J. Ward.

HOGS AND SAWDUST.

A NEW USE FOR THE HELL-PUNCH.

It is unfortunate that the last legislature did not pass an act requiring every pistol used in certain counties in the state to have a bell-punch attached thereto, to register for taxation every man, shot, a cent, sat, if killed, and 4 cent of merely wounded. We don't know that this would have had a tendency to lessen crime materially; we really fear it wouldn't—but it would certainly have added to the State's very handsome addition to her revenue. — Louisville Courier Journal.

CONKLING'S VENOM.

The parts of the interview that deal with the events that followed the Hayes inauguration and the persons that figured in them serve only to show the pettiness of Mr. Conkling's purposes and methods. Stripped of gaudy metaphor and rhetorical flourishes, which command admiration and divert attention from the substance to the form of his propositions, everything he has to say smacks of the pot-house politician whose sphere has been enlarged without corresponding improvement in his manners. Mr. Conkling is opposed to the administration because it has snubbed Mr. Conkling, and he is bound to "get even" with those who have "gone back on him." That is the long and the short of it in the politicians vernacular. The New York Senator is sinking below the horizon. He cannot disappear too soon. — Philadelphia Times.

The Southern question, or Bloody shirt question, on which the radical Republicans are struggling to realize their party, is a spent horse which was ridden successfully for the last time in the Presidential race of 1876. He dropped down in his tracks when he touched the goal in that famous course—

And there he stood with his mouth all wide.

But through there rolled not one breath of his pride.

And the foam of his gasping lies as white on the turf as in the memorable case of Sennacherib's cavalry. — A. J. Ward.

The item yesterday, stating that the pronunciation of "Schurz" is "shirts," and that, consequently, the clerks in the Interior Department are "under-shirts," has called out the following from a correspondent: "If the clerks in the interior department are 'under-shirts,' the purity of the civil service requires that they should be changed oftener than once in four years." — Pittsburg Sentinel.

If the democratic managers fancy that they can divert attention from the odious record of the house by renewing the old cry against Hayes's title, they will find that the people care more about living dangers than about dead allegorios. — Albany Journal.

It is reported of Tweed that just before his death he declared that "Tilden and Fairchild had killed him." If he really said this, what does it prove, but that he believed nobody in New York except these two men to be in earnest hostile to a great public robber? — N. Y. Tribune.

The wisest statesmanship is the largest amnesty; says Wade Hampton. It is a remark Abraham Lincoln might have made. — Boston Herald.

While Secretary Schurz has been assiduously attending to public business, what single good thing has Howe, or Blaine, or Conkling done all winter long? — Hartford Courant.

Without the Confederate-Brigadiers and their friends the Democratic party would not have vitality enough to live through a single season. — Charleston Daily Courier.

"Let there be peace."

SPRING.

From out a window in the sky.

The spring looks down invitingly.

To where in slumber garments white,

The earth dreamt through the winter's night.

He cried, "O earth! is it yet time?

Love's breath can melt the snow and rime."

She softly answered, "Quiet keep,

I will a little longer sleep."

He gently drew the window down

Official Paper of the City of Colorado Springs.

The compositors were very kindly remembered last night by the ladies of the Methodist church.

Messrs Tribe & Jefferay are preparing to start a branch house at Leadville. They have already secured a lot, and we understand, the contract for a building has been let.

The Colorado Springs String band, under its able leader, Mr. Conrad Brugel, received several complimentary notices from prominent citizens on a recent visit to Pueblo.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather, the ice cream social, advertised to take place at the Presbyterian Church last evening, has been postponed for to-night. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

General William Harris and Louis Pheister, have formed a co-partnership in the confectionery, fruit and vegetable business. Several new improvements are proposed, whereby the old "head-quarters" will be one of the most attractive stands on Tejon street.

It will be remembered that the entertainments given at the public school some two weeks ago, were for the purpose of raising funds for the purchase of an encyclopedias for the use of the school. Yesterday a complete set of Appleton's Encyclopedia was received, which gave very general satisfaction.

We are grieved to announce the death of Miss Minnie Jabbine, which occurred at the residence of her sister, Mrs. L. J. Anderson, a day or two ago. Miss Jabbine has been ill off and on for some two years past, during which time she has drawn around her a large circle of friends who will deeply regret her death. Her remains will be taken to her former home, Louisville, Ky., for interment.

Coal. Considering the inclemency of the weather, there was a large attendance at the festival given by the ladies of the M. E. Church, last evening. Supper was at 7 P.M., followed until 8 o'clock by a program, consisting of a few readings and recitations, and were much enjoyed by all present. Only a want of space forbids a more extended notice.

Hotel Arrivals.

CRAWFORD.—J. P. Dickenson, Mo., F. H. Austin, Chicago Ranch, H. J. Clark, Kansas City, Mrs. Stafford, F. L. Longemaker, Denver, T. C. Mundine and wife, Texas, J. B. Grant, Mill City, Miss Marjorie Pearl, Pueblo.

Personal.

Mr. Joseph Rees is back from New York. J. B. Grant, of Mill City, is stopping at the Crawford.

O. B. Myers and wife left this city yesterday, for Canon City.

D. J. Martin returned from his eastern trip yesterday.

Messrs. J. W. Spencer, Frank Giltner, and Dell What have left for the spring round-ups on the Arkansas river.

A. N. Fuller, agent of the Rocky Mountain Insurance Company, left yesterday for Denver, on business for the Company.

Mr. Nickerson, president of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad, arrived yesterday and is staying at Manitou.

Arrangements in Town. Arrived in town a few days ago, and with him one of the new steam engines, which had been sent by clock-work. On Saturday evening accidentally got into a very unawares to the engine, and suffered. In the morning he had to call up the engine, and the current of steam caused him to be scalded.

He is now recovering, and is expected to be fully recovered in a few days.

During the late war the volunteer forces stationed at Los Lunas used some splendid coal brought from the Rio Puerco, and the quartermaster department at Fort Craig, further south, used to be supplied with coal from a six foot vein near the town of San Pedro.

Below the Jornada del Muerto, our southern contemporaries, at various times reported bituminous coal beds near Dona Ana and Mesilla, on either side of the Rio Grande.

West of the Rio Grande we know of coal beds on the Puerco, and around the Zuni reservation, indeed as far as the Colorado.

Very few of all the deposits enumerated have been worked to any extent; but as the two years after another springs up covered plains and mesas a great deal will have to be brought from the coal districts, especially to have a railroad, and to render the territory to render the same and territorial mineral deposits available for capital.

If you want to buy cheap goods, go to A. D. Craigie's, the old reliable store.

Milk five cents a quart. T. E. Johnson

Fresh bread, cakes, and everything in the baker's line delivered daily by W. H. Kenney.

Arrangements are now pending between the strong and quiet bands of this city and the hotel managers at Manitou for an engagement of two or three weeks during the coming season. The citizens of Colorado Springs would do well to make a similar arrangement, there by showing their appreciation of home talent.

Manitou.

The season at Manitou is already beginning. The Manitou House, which has been open all winter, has been put in summer trim. The Cliff House, which has also been open all winter, is a grand abode of guests. The soda baths are well patronized. The new town board seem awake to their duties, the drives have been widened and improved; there has been a general cleaning and tidying up. The different literary stables are, judging from their preparations, anticipating a lively trade. The Beebe House, which has been enlarged (it needed no improvements) will be ready for guests by the 10th inst. This house will be under the same management as last summer and will undoubtedly be as deservedly popular as ever. No summer resort can offer greater attractions than Manitou, situated as it is in a sheltered glen, with high mountains as a background and an outlook over the plains; the walks and drives are unequalled, the hotels compare most favorably with eastern houses, mosquito and warm nights are unknown, at least one blanket being a necessity when sleeping, and a good wrap when taking an evening or morning walk. Those so inclined will have all the dancing they desire. New chapters in geology and botany lie open for those fond of natural science, and upon the blue unclouded skies can be read the story of the stars. As for climate and health, why Manitou is in Colorado; what more can be said?

New Mexico's First Coal Field.

In our opinion the coal fields of Colfax county, to the north of Las Vegas, are the most valuable and extensive deposits within our territorial limits. After the purchase of the so-called Maxwell land grant by English capitalists, a few years ago, the new owners engaged the services of able engineers who, after surveying the grant, reported to have traced seams and veins of coal over a tract of more than one hundred square miles, averaging over six feet in thickness. Over sixty thousand tons of coal! With taking into account the thousands of barrels which could be supplied with what is left, this would give to a railroad extended south from Colorado, what an immense amount of steam power this would create for the home manufacture of other resources!

At least to the east, in the same country, we know of a vein fourteen feet in thickness, some four miles below the old state road, on Rabbit Ear Creek. More county has not been so much surveyed, and we cannot, therefore, give exact localities of coal deposits.

Here, in San Miguel county, we have, a few miles above Las Vegas on the Galinas river, some splendid deposits of coal, sufficient to supply our town with fuel, if anybody wanted to use such; but as long as wood can be bought at twenty-five cents a burro load, nobody cares to invest in coal. Below here, on the eastern slope of the Chupanes mountain, we have again coal beds, as well as on the Pecos, a few miles above Anton Chico.

Before reaching the Rio Grande Valley we come to the anthracite coal beds, in the old Pikes mountain, near Santa Fe, in close proximity to gold, silver, and copper mining districts. The New Mexico Mining company used this class of coal, to a large extent, in their stamp mills, and it is pronounced to be fully equal to the Pennsylvania anthracite, and better than any other of the kind in the great Southwest. In the same county of Santa Fe, we know of bituminous coal beds on the Pecos and Galisteo rivers, as well as near Santa Fe creek, in the mountains above the territorial capital.

In the Sandia mountains there is a four and a half foot thick vein of coal, near the little town of Tyeras, not far from Albuquerque, which the engineers of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, some years ago, traced for a distance of nearly two miles.

During the late war the volunteer forces stationed at Los Lunas used some splendid coal brought from the Rio Puerco, and the quartermaster department at Fort Craig, further south, used to be supplied with coal from a six foot vein near the town of San Pedro.

Below the Jornada del Muerto, our southern contemporaries, at various times reported bituminous coal beds near Dona Ana and Mesilla, on either side of the Rio Grande.
